

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for allocating uplink resources is provided. According to one embodiment, the method includes the steps of estimating the traffic in the uplink, and allocating resources based on the step of estimating. The uplink traffic estimation is achieved by observing the traffic properties in the downlink, and the traffic properties learned by the system.